

Refrea, Mar John S.

4IT – B

This photo shows me with coconut trees and other plants around me, which represent biological diversity. The presence of different plant species in the environment contributes to ecological balance and provides food and shelter for living organisms.